DID YOU KNOW?

There are a total of 44 receiving vaults in 2 buildings. The first (shown in the picture above) contains 12 that were used in the late 1800's and later to hold the bodies of the deceased who died while wintering in Jacksonville until they could be returned to the North after the ground thawed there in the Spring. The city was such a popular wintering spot that 32 more crypts were built in 1927. Soon after, Henry Flagler built the Florida East Coast Railway which ferried people from the port in Jacksonville to warmer points south where Flagler built newer hotels. Thus, even fewer died here & the receiving vaults soon became obsolete. They have sat unused ever since but would be available for renovation and sale to an interested family.

Most schools start this month. Be sure to stop for buses and slow for school zones!
