Among the distinguished mothers buried in Evergreen is Arnolta Williams. Better known as "Mama Williams", she died on May 15, 1995 at 101 years of age. Mrs. Williams was an active volunteer in many organizations in Jacksonville, receiving numerous awards and recognitions for her lifetime of service. She was a Florida delegate to the 1981 White House Council on Aging. In 1988 Mrs. Williams said she considered her most important achievement was her positive influence during the racially troubled 1960s.
